The other big difference is the tools and techniques used in order to create hand lettering or calligraphy. What Does Hand Lettering Mean? Hand lettering is essentially drawing letters using as many strokes as necessary instead of typing them using a keyboard. It's different from calligraphy, where we use basic strokes to form letters and words. You also often have more control over the letters with hand lettering as opposed to calligraphy.

Calligraphy and hand-lettering are often thought to be the same thing, but there is a difference: True calligraphy is an ancient Chinese art form that requires intense training, skill, and a lot of fancy (and expensive) tools. Hand-lettering, on the other hand, is a much easier and more informal form of calligraphy; think of it as an elevated form of writing in cursive.
