Northern Lights by Nora Roberts - FictionDB

Nora Roberts is one of my favorite authors. Northern Lights, set in Alaska, is a romance murder mystery novel. Accurate description of Alaskan life. Just enough information about characters to keep you wondering. I felt the story line would have been just as effective using less four letter words. One or two romance scenes too many. Main female character's mother is annoying.

Northern Lights crosses the line of a small town with a big city cop. It presents a storyline that makes you feel the chemistry between the characters. At times it seems to stray from the storyline, and at points switches to the perspective of characters that have minor roles in the book. All in all an interesting book to read.
