The Fatal Conceit The Errors

The Fatal Conceit: The Errors of Socialism is a book written by the economist and political philosopher Friedrich Hayek and edited by the philosopher William Warren Bartley. The book was first published in 1988 by the University of Chicago Press. Bruce Caldwell has questioned how far Bartley was the editor and how far the author. The title of the book is a reference to a passage from Adam Smith, in his The Theory of Moral Sentiments.

Hayek rejects the explicit, rationalistic construction of most ethical systems because such constructions rest upon the “fatal conceit” of human reason. Reason, Hayek argues, is incapable of commanding the information necessary to design an ethical system. Hayek believes that ethics lie somewhere between instinct and reason.
