Welding two pieces of metal together forms a permanent bond in which the metals are heated to a melting point, mixed together and then cooled, creating a single object. This type of bond is stronger than other bonds, such as soldering, which can be reversed. There are four basic types of welding: MIG, TIG, flux-cored, and stick.

How to: A Beginner's Guide To Welding

Arc welding or “stick welding” as it’s referred, uses a flux covered rod to weld with. Flux is a chemical coating that’s used when welding to protect the liquid weld puddle from atmospheric gases like nitrogen and oxygen. If you attempt to arc weld without a flux covered welding rod your welds will come out weak and full of porosity.
